DEFINING A SMALL TOWN

The Stuart News may be a trifle idealistic in its description of a small town, but just the same it hits the nail pretty square on the head with most of its ticks. Its definition is given below:

A small town is a place where we don't hear about our faiths, hopes or our charities, where reputation and character mean the same thing, where concrete looking is more esteemed than front, where we stand up for our rights rather than sit down for them, where a neighborhood is 100 miles long and neighborhoodly, 100 miles deep, where a friend indeed doesn't wait for your need, where like Judge Billy's boy who went to the school not because he made a million dollars but because he came back still Judge Billy's boy; where the telephone directory is "Who's Who," the U. S. census the social register, a man's financial rating is based upon not what he takes in but what he puts out and we have 400 because the population is just that; where the mayor and the town bum know each other by their first name; where they don't carve anything on your tombstone; where you are said to your face; where we go out with our own wives and like it, where a stranger's a stranger only because he wants to be; where a man is entertaining you serve with chicken and blood-wind; where the high school play came from 20 years ago; where the sheriff inquires about your wife's seductress as he takes you to jail, the judge will loan you the 10 dollars to pay your fine and the neighbors are glad to see you back when you've served your time; where you don't tip the barber because he's a member of your bridge club and you don't cheat your opponent at poker because he attends your Sunday school class; and where a newspaper man can make a living writing what everyone already knows.

CO-EDS

In a small group discussion in Tallahassee recently, subject of coeducation, was discussed with particular reference to the relative opportunity for leadership of the girl student with talent in co-educational and other colleges.

Someone argued that the girl student cannot expect to hold top jobs in class or student body organizations or top positions on student publications in co-educational schools. Someone else wondered whether, in a small town, there is discrimination against girl students in such colleges. The majority agreed that there is general discrimination.

The Presbyterian college publicity bureau can now furnish us with an example of the slim chance a girl student has to get to the top. A girl was elected to a class office at Presbyterian college this year, breaking a precedent which has stood 60 years, since the founding of the school at Clinton, S. C. But, although this girl defeated two male opponents for the job, she did not prove that a girl can win a top position. She was selected secretary and treasurer of the freshman class—not president. Young men are president and vice-president.

This may not be a fair sample, and, even if it is not, it offers no rebuttal to the premise that girls must play second fiddle in co-educational schools. No doubt, in many co-educational colleges girls are secretaries, treasurers, vice-presidents, student body assistant editors, art editors, vice-chairmen of judiciary. But are they, may they hope to be, presidents, editors-in-chief or chairmen? We think not. The lordly male sits at the head of the table.

This is, of course, just one side of college life. We may accept as demonstrated that a girl who aspires to leadership with some hope of achievement should do well to attend a college for women.

But suppose she aspires, not so much to leadership as to a full date calendar? Well, even if it is not, it is, and its defenders who do not lack arguments.—Tallahassee Democrat.

MAKE IT LAST ALL YEAR

Well, it is the day after Christmas, 1939 so long looked forward to, so potent in its prompting to charity and so prelude of liberality and good cheer, is slipping backward into the long vista of history.

Already some of the tops are broken and some are being laid out and all lie in the shelf. But some of the gifts will be treasured through the years. They represent something more than money spent and Christmas debts repaid. They speak in spiritual language and tell of heartfelt interest and devotion and genuine good wishes.

Today as we are clearing away a real snowy city, it is not snow while to be a shelter saving as much as we can from the better emotional experiences of Christmas.

Most of the things we not will perish with the passing of the year, we resolve that something of the kindness which was so abundant before Christmas shall be extended over the year. That would be a permanent gain, wouldn't it?

How willingly before Christmas are listened when we were told to be thoughtful for the less fortunate; to share our means with others; to be more neighborly?

Let there less need of cold and snow now and will there be less as the long, cold, dreary winter drags out in the districts where live the unfortunate and the needy?

Yes, this is the day after, and what better time could there be for making one big life resolve. Let's make something of the Christmas spirit last until Christmas comes again.—The Palm Beach Post.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay

Searching for a subject for this week's column, I found the following editorial in the current issue of the Tampa Evening News where to my mind is worthy of wide distribution. America needs, in step at this season and give a little time itself to her countless blessings.

The following editorial invites us to consider and act. It is a happy New Year to all. I am replying to a letter from the Iowa Des Moines Register, the American Legion for a message of the season, sent

"Any American who doesn't want 1939 with a Happy New Year is afflicted with chronic indigestion," a disease which is practically unknown in the "Land of the Roseanne River" for America is free from fear, from hatred, and from the horror of war. We should resolve to keep it so that the happiness of the new year may continue all year."

And every American will join with the Governor in this statement. While untold millions of people in foreign lands are suffering in fear, wondering what tomorrow may bring, while frequent air raid alarms send them scurrying into shelters haunted by the fear that their wives and their children may become victims of the ravaging war, Americans are thinking of the happiness they may bring into the lives of their loved ones.

Shipping in America is a problem for the ordinary citizen because he has so many things in common to pick the girl he feels he loved ones will most appreciate. But in most foreign lands government rationing and government restrictions limit his choice to an absolute zero and he can't buy that because he hasn't the money. Yes, America is free. We have love free to achieve, and free from hate. And every American should thank his God that this is so. And he should join with Governor Cline in the firm resolve that he will do his utmost to keep America so that not only this year but succeeding years will present the same picture of a nation which knows its course is secure in faith, and determined in its resolve to keep itself free from the hatred and again which is engulfing the nations less fortunate.

GOD BLESS AMERICA, LAND OF THE FREE, AND GOD BLESS AMERICA, FREE TO ITS IDEALS OF FREEDOM AND LIBERTY WITH JUSTICE FOR ALL.

EDUCATOR'S SON TO TRY POLITICS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Dec. 27.—Bobby Cawthon, former captain of football and coach at the University of Florida, will turn to politics next year.

He renounced his candidacy Wednesday for representative in the state legislature from this county. Representative Walter T. Moore, who served two sessions will not seek reelection.

Cawthon was captain of the Florida football team in 1929. He was football coach and principal of Robert E. Lee school at Jacksonville from 1930 to 1932 and then served three years as freshman football coach at the University of Florida. He now is engaged in automobile service business here.

Cawthon is the son of W. S. Cawthon, long-time state superintendent of public instruction.

The Federal Government found the Everglades to be ideal for producing seed-cane for other sugar-producing areas. Such growing indicates that the Everglades is ideal for producing sugar.

Many Visitors On Coast, Records Say
West Palm Beach, Fla., Dec. 28.—Thousands of visitors from northern states had themselves to Florida to spend the Christmas holidays, according to the report of D. T. Howard, superintendent of public works, who maintains a check on incoming cars.

Howard's latest report shows 1,200 cars from out of state entered the city in the eight-hour checking period. This is slightly more than 150 cars per hour, an average increase of 46 cars an hour over the previous weeks and the check showed that 104 cars arrived each hour from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

feature of bail is regarded as a conviction.
The bulletin states that "All municipal court judges, justices of the peace, judges of county judges, county judges, judges of courts of crime, judges of criminal courts of record, and circuit judges are respectfully requested to require surrender to them of all operators and chauffeurs' licenses held by persons convicted, or whose appearance bonds have been fully forfeited in their respective courts, of any of the six classes of offenses.
Records of the convictions are to be forwarded to the State department, which will revoke such licenses.
The bulletin states that all of the above types of judges "are hereby designated drivers' license suspending agents of the Department of Public Safety, if willing to accept such designation with authority in the name of the Department of Public Safety to suspend drivers' licenses under the following circumstances:
"1. Where the driver has been convicted (or his appearance bond forfeited, in any court presided over by any of said judges of any of the six classes of offenses, or in violation of the law does not require the mandatory revocation of the driver's license, but which in the judgment of the court is sufficient cause to warrant suspension of the license.

"2. Where the trial of any driver for a traffic violation resulting in conviction it appears to any of said judges from sufficient evidence produced at such trial that the defendant's license should be suspended by virtue of the provisions of Section 39.
The section confers authority on the department "to suspend the license of an operator or chauffeur without preliminary hearing upon showing of its records and other sufficient evidence that the license should be suspended."
"3. Has committed an offense in another State which if committed in this State would be grounds for suspension or revocation."
Operators and chauffeurs whose licenses have been suspended may, on application, obtain a hearing from the State department on the suspension within 20 days after receipt of the request the bulletin states.—Palm Beach Post.

The forthcoming session of Congress will undoubtedly be faced with consideration of sugar legislation. Congress should not overlook the fact that consumers' interests far outweigh producers' interests. The necessity of protecting the consumer, resulting in suspension of sugar control legislation, very clearly proves that restriction, limitation and proration are not for the best interests of the sugar consumers of the United States.

Shipments & Price Slack During Week

An increase in vegetable shipments from the Lake Region was evidenced this week when the reports showed 35,000 tons of beans were added to northern markets. There were 24 cars of potatoes, 12 cars of English peas, five cars of cabbages, two cars of cauliflower and nine head cars out of the Glades area over the same period.

With the holiday season not being a sharp decline has been noted in vegetable prices. Prices are selling from 8 to 8 1/2 cents a bushel, as compared with 8 1/2 to 9 cents a bushel on Wednesday last and 10 to 11 1/2 cents a bushel on Friday last.

Shipments around 1,500 tons of citrus fruit are expected to leave the area during the next few weeks. The major portion of the full shipments were made from the Belle Glade and South Bay area. Heavy shipments are expected to start around the first of the coming week from the Pahokee and Canal Point section.
